Courier Staff Report

The bad news is that chances for snow and ice still hover over the Courierarea as does the cold wind.

The good news is that the cold is moving out and the possibility of a weekend with temperatures in the 50s looms.

While there were multiple slide-offs when drivers ventured into Wednesday morning's new snowfall, for the most part emergency responders in the area said there were no serious problems.

King's Daughters Hospital also said it did not see cases related to exposure to the cold.

And, the Madison Animal Shelter said it had fielded several calls from concerned citizens who saw animals they thought were being ill-treated in the harsh weather, but by midday yesterday, investigators had not removed any animals from property.

The National Weather Service said late yesterday to expect temps last night on either side of zero but heading upward today.

Jefferson County Sheriff Dave Thomas said the calls his department had been receiving were normal for this time of year.

The Madison Police Department tweeted a picture of just one slide-off accident Tuesday evening on Madison's hilltop.

Hanover Police Marshall Josh Taylor said the department responded to one weather-related accident Wednesday morning after a vehicle was unable to stop at an intersection, which cause a two-car accident. There were no injuries reported. "We were fortunate enough to have additional officers on shift today to split up duties to allow our officers to spend less time in the inclement weather," said Taylor.

The Carroll County Sheriff's Department reported they had seen some slide-off accidents and had received more calls than normal from citizens concerned about animals.

Madison Fire Chief Bill DeVries explained the fire department and City of Madison Streets Department work closely year-round to make sure firefighters are able to use fire hydrants in below-freezing temperatures. He said the fire crews take extra precautions to protect their equipment and themselves from the cold when they have to respond to fires in freezing, and below-freezing, temperatures, such as carrying salt, keeping up with equipment maintenance, circulating pumps, staying hydrated and partnering with other local groups — the streets department, Salvation Army, Red Cross and law enforcement agencies just to name a few. "If we go out, we depend on other agencies to help us help others," said DeVries. "It's a team effort."

King's Daughters' Convenient Care in Madison hasn't seen any cold-related medical cases yet with the extreme cold that entered the area Tuesday night into Wednesday morning, said Dave Ommen with KDH.

Jenny Slover bundled up Wednesday afternoon before heading out for a quick walk across the property to check on the Madison-Jefferson County Animal Shelter's propane levels. Slover, the shelter manager, said they were at 80 percent in their tank levels. The shelter is operating on its normal hours throughout the cold, but it hasn't been very busy in terms of visitors or people coming to meet potential new furry family members, which means their front door isn't opening as much as normal to let more of the cold air in. Slover said the biggest change the shelter makes each year when it gets too cold out is to their dog kennel cleaning. Usually, when the kennels are being cleaned the dogs are taken outside, but other than very short walks, the shelter staff doesn't want to expose them to the well-below-freezing temperatures. This means a longer kennel cleaning time and some shuffling around for the dogs. They clean one kennel at a time and move the dogs one at a time to an empty kennel until they are ready to move on to the next occupied space.

Slover said the shelter could use cash donations to help pay for heating the building through the rest of winter and to put toward the animals' medical costs. She said the county's outpouring of donations of food and other supplies during Christmastime was amazing and that they still have unopened bags of food to use from then — more than a month later.

In the next 24-36 hours if you have car trouble and find yourself broken down along the road it is an emergency, not only is it acceptable to call 911, it's expected. We will dispatch officers to you to get you someplace warm and help make arrangements for your vehicle.

Please be prepared if you must travel.

John Perrine - Indiana State Police on Facebook at 12:53 p.m. Wednesday

Master Trooper Kelly Lazzell made a new friend this morning. He found Marley and his owner stranded along I-65 in a disabled vehicle. They had been sitting in the cold for several minutes and Marley was shivering severely. They were very happy to sit in the warm for 45 minutes until a service truck arrived and Marley thanked Trooper Lazzell with endless dog-kisses.

Indiana lawmakers considering property tax amnesty period

Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana legislators are considering creating an amnesty period for homeowners and businesses to pay overdue property taxes without the penalty fees and interest. The bill approved 48-0 by the Indiana Senate on Monday would allow counties to waive penalties and interest if overdue taxes are paid by May 2020. A state report shows that Indiana's 92 counties reported $345 million in delinquent property taxes and $175 million in late fees and interest owed in 2018. Northwestern Indiana's Lake County had the highest in both categories, with $96 million in overdue taxes and $102 million in penalty fees. Supporters say many Lake County properties with delinquent taxes aren't attractive to purchasers at tax sales because of the large fees owed. The proposal now goes to the House for consideration.

Guilty plea in chaining of women in basement

INDIANAPOLIS — A man has pleaded guilty to rape and criminal confinement charges after keeping a woman chained in his basement for four days. The Indianapolis Star reported Maurice Nelson, 30, could face a maximum sentence of 35 years in prison under the terms of a plea agreement filed Tuesday. Sentencing is scheduled for Feb. 13. The charges stem from a July 2016 incident. An affidavit said that after a neighbor reported hearing the 23-year-old woman's screams, officers cut through a padlock, forced open the front door of Nelson's north side home, found the woman nude, handcuffed and shackled with chains around her neck and her ankles. The woman told investigators she met Nelson via a telephone chat line and agreed to go out with him.

Plans for 400-acre park on Ohio in works

JEFFERSONVILLE — A group that's spearheading a planned 400-acre park along the Ohio River shoreline hopes to unveil preliminary designs for the project this fall. The nonprofit River Heritage Conservancy says OLIN, a Philadelphia-based landscape architecture firm, should deliver schematic drawings of the park by mid-September. Those drawings will enable the conservancy to get construction estimates and more concrete numbers for a capital campaign that's expected to kick off in 2020. Supporters say the park will transform the river's shoreline just north of Louisville. The Ogle Foundation and a private donor have provided about $1 million to help launch the conservancy and start buying property. The park would intersect a bike and recreational trail near the Falls of the Ohio State Park, which boasts a 400-million-year-old fossilized coral reef.

Death in accident at avionics company

FORT WAYNE — A man has died in an industrial accident at an avionics company near the Fort Wayne International Airport. The Allen County coroner's office says Kenyon Disbrow, 57, of Ossian was dead at the scene Tuesday from blunt force injuries. The Allen County Sheriff's Department says his death occurred at Premier Avionics at the Fort Wayne Aero Center. The coroner's office says Disbrow's work-related death was an accident, but it remains under investigation by the coroner, Fort Wayne police and the Fort Wayne Airport Public Safety Department. Premier Avionics performs aircraft repairs, parts installation and also offers training for pilots. Company owner Brian Paugh tells WPTA-TV that the company is cooperating with authorities.

Shooter's parents deny responsibility

NOBLESVILLE — The parents of a 13-year-old boy who opened fire in a classroom say they could not foresee his actions and deny any responsibility for them. The boy's parents responded Monday to a lawsuit brought by the parents of Ella Whistler seeking damages for her injuries suffered in the May 25 shooting at Noblesville West Middle School. The shooter's parents said they are not personally responsible for the girl's injuries and that their son and Noblesville Schools may both bear some responsibility. They also say that if the court orders them to pay any damages, they should be offset by the amount the Whistlers have already received from other sources such as insurance and donations.

Ella was shot in the face, neck and upper chest and one gunshot severely damaged an artery in her right arm and had to be replaced. Her parents have said doctors believe her arm may never fully recover. Science teacher Jason Seaman ended the shooting when he tackled the youth in his classroom at the school about 20 miles north of Indianapolis. The former college football player was shot three times in the attack. The boy admitted to the attack during a juvenile court hearing on Nov. 14 and a judge ordered him held in a state juvenile detention center until he's 18 or deemed rehabilitated. Prosecutors said the boy took two handguns and more than 100 rounds of ammunition owned by his father from a safe in the basement of his family's home, and brought them to school in a backpack. The boy's mother had testified that he had found the keys to the safe.

$140K judgment in car dealer case

MISHAWAKA — The former owner of a used car dealership has been ordered to pay about $140,000 for alleged deception, including failing to deliver vehicle titles to customers. A St. Joseph County judge ordered Eddie Rodriguez of Bremen to pay the State of Indiana $31,000 and civil penalties of $110,000 for 20 violations of state law. Recipients will be notified in April.

STATE BRIEFS

Supreme Court justice swearing-in next week

FRANKFORT — A new Kentucky Supreme Court justice will be sworn in to office next week. A statement from the Administrative Office of the Courts said Debra Hembree Lambert will be formally sworn in as a justice on Feb. 4 at the state Capitol in Frankfort. She was elected to the court in November and will serve the 3rd Supreme Court District, which includes 27 counties in southern and south-central Kentucky. Before her election to the Supreme Court, Lambert served as an appellate judge for four years and before that was a circuit judge for Lincoln, Pulaski and Rockcastle counties. Lambert succeeds retired Justice Daniel Venters.

Zebra dies on Indiana farm in extreme cold

DELPHI — A sheriff says a zebra has died from the extreme cold at a farm. Carroll County Sheriff Tobe Leazenby says the zebra was found dead Wednesday morning at a farm outside Delphi, about 65 miles northwest of Indianapolis.

He tells WLFI-TV that after consulting with a veterinarian from the State Board of Animal Health, investigators concluded the zebra's back hooves became stuck in fencing outdoors, the animal panicked and inhaled enough cold air to cause its death. He says a second zebra survived and has been moved.

Leazenby says the farm had adequate shelter, food, and water for its animals, but his department is investigating the incident further. He says the farm also has kangaroos, but they're inside a shelter.

Kentucky

Bevin gets heat cold-closure remarks

FRANKFORT — Gov. Matt Bevin is getting some heat for saying school districts are being too "soft" on kids when they cancel classes because of cold weather. Many of Kentucky's schools closed Wednesday with forecasts predicting wind chills well below zero. Bevin told WHAS radio Tuesday that closing schools for cold weather "sends messages to our young people that if life is hard you can curl up in the fetal position somewhere." Bevin added that he's "being only slightly facetious." He also said it is "better to err on the side of being safe." Many teachers, school administrators and political rivals did not see it as a joke. Democratic candidate for governor Adam Edelen called Bevin's comments "dumb and mean."

Transportation Cabinet offering scholarships

FRANKFORT — Students pursuing civil engineering and engineering technology degrees can apply for scholarships being offered by the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet. The cabinet says it will award up to 30 new scholarships. The deadline is Feb. 1. Information and applications are available online. In addition to tuition assistance, scholarship recipients will have a chance to work during the summers and are guaranteed employment after graduation. Students agree to work one year for the cabinet for each year of scholarship assistance. Scholarships in the bachelor's programs range from $6,200 to $6,600 per semester. For an associate's program in civil engineering technology, the scholarship is for $3,000 per semester. Recipients will be notified in April.

Boy, 12, dies in house fire

SCIENCE HILL — A 12-year-old boy has died in an early morning house fire. Pulaski County Coroner Clyde Strunk told the Commonwealth Journal that the boy's body was found on his bedroom floor Wednesday morning after the flames were extinguished. He said two adults and a 5-year-old girl made it out of the home, though one adult was taken to the hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation. Strunk did not release the names of those involved. No other information was immediately released.

College names program for Wendell Berry

EMINENCE — A new sustainable agricultural program developed by a Vermont College is inspired by the works of Kentucky author Wendell Berry. Sterling College received a $2.5 million grant that will help fund the no-tuition degree program. The studies will be in Henry County, Kentucky, where Berry lives and writes works on nature, farming and the environment. The grant comes from the NoVo Foundation. Sterling College says admission will be highly selective but students will owe no tuition. The Wendell Berry Farming Program will be led by Sterling faculty who live in Kentucky, the college said.

Edelen files for gov ahead of deadline

FRANKFORT — Democrat Adam Edelen filed Monday to run for governor of Kentucky, promising an issues-based campaign that will not accept money from special interest groups. Edelen was elected Kentucky's auditor in 2011. He was preparing to challenge Republican U.S. Sen. Rand Paul in the 2016 election cycle when he lost his re-election bid to Mike Harmon in 2015, a then little-known GOP state lawmaker. The setback kept Edelen out of the public eye for a few years, but now he's back with Louisville developer Gill Holland as his running mate to promise "a different kind of campaign" at a time when Republicans are dominating Kentucky's state and local elections. "The problem that we've had in the past with the Democratic Party is we've just criticized the leadership

Ex-officer pleads guilty in enticing minor

LOUISVILLE — A former police officer has pleaded guilty to trying to entice a minor into sexual activity through the Louisville Metro Police Department's program for teens interested in law enforcement. The Courier Journal reported Brandon Wood, 32, entered the plea Monday and is now the second ex-officer charged in connection to sex abuse in the now-dissolved program. His plea agreement said Wood was a program adviser and counselor. It said he met the

6th annual Black Heritage Month exhibit

The artwork of Brenda Shropshire will be on exhibit during the 6th Annual Black Heritage Month Exhibit display throughout February at the Art On Main Gallery.

Shropshire is a self-taught photographer and painter who lives in Madison and often uses area scenes as her subject.

She sells her photographs and paintings at the Madison Farmers Market at the Broadway Fountain and has participated in many events throughout Madison.

In 2018, Shropshire's painting of the iconic Broadway Fountain was selected for the 2018 Chautauqua Festival's poster and her painting of the spiral staircase of the Shrewsbury-Windle home was selected as one of 30 pieces for the 'Artsy Banner' project in downtown Madison. Shropshire also participated in her first-ever Madison Art Club Regional Art Show where both of her entries were sold.

Shropshire's exhibit for Black Heritage Month will occupy the 'Featured Artist' space in the front section of the Art On Main Gallery from Feb. 1 to Feb. 28.

The public is also invited to a gallery talk and reception about the exhibit from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. on Feb. 7 at the gallery.

Gallery hours are Monday to Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 4 p.m.

Taking care, just in case

By Phillip Alder

In "A Farewell to Arms," Ernest Hemingway wrote, "That is the greatest fallacy, the wisdom of old men. They do not grow wise. They grow careful."

Older bridge players do tend to be more careful than their younger brethren, especially in the bidding. In this deal, South was in four spades. What did the old codger do after West started with three rounds of clubs?

South opened with a weak no-trump, showing 12-14 points. North responded two clubs, planning, if his partner rebid two diamonds, to jump to three spades to show four spades, five hearts and at least game-going values (the Smolen convention). When West made a takeout double over two spades, North jumped to four spades. However, if he had redoubled (or passed), the opponents could have been doubled in three clubs and set 500.

When East played up the line in clubs, South discarded a heart from the board and took the third trick with his queen. With the heart ace missing, declarer had to draw trumps without loss. This required finding West with the king. (From the bidding, East could not have a singleton king; and even in an uncontested auction, it would be unwise to play East for a stiff king.)

But just in case West had a singleton king, South was careful to lead a low spade at trick four. Here, when the king appeared, declarer won with dummy's ace, played a spade to his jack and continued with the heart queen.

If South had led the spade jack or 10 at trick four, he would have lost two clubs, one heart and one spade.

Crash backup leads to fatality*Courier staff report

The third fatality on Interstate 65 in Clark County in two weeks occurred Wednesday just before noon. A preliminary investigation reveals traffic was backed up on I-65 southbound due to a semi tractor-trailer crash which occurred earlier in the morning near the 5.2 mile-marker, said a news release from the Indiana State Police.

A Ford Fiesta, driven by Carl Edward Benham II, 36, of Sellersburg was stopped at the rear of the back-up behind a semi tractor-trailer which was also stopped in traffic. As both vehicles sat stationary, Nissan van, driven by Ryan M. Mosley, 28, of Louisville failed to stop and struck Benham's car, pushing it into the rear of the stationary semi-trailer. Benham sustained life-threatening injuries as a result of the collision and was rushed to the University Of Louisville Hospital by ambulance.

Mark Johnson carries on community band tradition

By CHARLIE ROHLFING

There was a time, not too long ago, when every community had a town band. Fraternal organizations like Elks Lodges also had bands. It was an era before recordings and amplified loudspeakers, and if you wanted music, you had to make it yourself!

It was also a time most families had pianos in the parlor and kids took music lessons. It was fairly easy to form a community band from the talent at hand. But times change. Most communities no longer have a band to play Christmas concerts, at festivals or ceremonies. Fortunately for Madison, our town band tradition is alive and well.

Mark Johnson directs the Madison Community Concert Band. Many of you might also know him as Madison's building inspector. Mark is a longtime music educator at area schools, with a music degree from Indiana State and a Masters in trumpet performance from Butler.

Mark's music career started in the 4th grade here in Madison. "Me and Dr. Dave Butler swapped first and second chair trumpet duties all through school," Mark said. "Plus we had a band people might remember called Soul Motivation. It was me, Dave Butler, Floyd Gibson, Dave Wells, Bill Watson and Nate Davis."

Today Mark actively plays all over the region, including high school musicals, the Hanover College band, the Doctors Band, plus a brass ensemble that includes Tom Kennedy, Kevin Carlson, Courtney Cox, Phil Joyce and Kent Mahoney.

But his greatest passion is the Madison Community Concert Band, which he's been directing since 2010. "Very few towns have a band anymore, especially as big as ours," Mark states. "We have 42 people and we play 11 concerts a year. Our annual Christmas show this year was the biggest ever."

"It's totally a volunteer effort," Mark said. "People do it for the love of playing and the fun of getting together once a week. For a lot of our members it's a social thing."

Rehearsals are every Tuesday, basically year round, with the month of January off.

Ages in the band range from 8th graders up to 85 years old. "We're from all walks of life," Mark said. "We have nurses, doctors, some IU grads who were in the Marching Hundred. We don't have a lawyer right now, we could use one."

"I absolutely encourage the younger players to come out and give it a try. If you are in the 8th grade or older and you're a good player, you can totally handle our music. We play grade 3 on a scale of 6."

The first rehearsal of the year is Tuesday, Feb. 5 at 7 p.m. in the Brown Gym. "We could take 20 more players," Mark said. "We have room for everybody. We even have a violinist right now. But we really need more percussion and trom-

Courier Special Report

LOUISVILLE — The American Red Cross is once again issuing its emergency call for blood and platelet donors to give now after multiple snowstorms, frigid temperatures and the government shutdown has further reduced lifesaving donations.

At this time, Red Cross blood donations are being distributed to hospitals faster than they are coming in, and there is less than a three-day supply of most blood types. The Red Cross tries to maintain a five-day supply of blood to meet the needs of patients and to be prepared for emergencies that require significant volumes of donated blood products.

In January, more than 4,600 Red Cross blood and platelet donations went uncollected as blood drives were forced to cancel because of severe winter weather blanketing parts of the U.S., and additional cancellations are expected this week. Weather travel advisories may cause even more donors to delay their planned donations. Donors in areas affected by winter weather are asked to make an appointment now to give once it is safe to travel.

The federal government shutdown also affected donations as more than 4 percent of Red Cross blood collections come from drives sponsored by military and local, state and federal government agencies. About 30 blood drives by federal offices were canceled across the country because of the shutdown, leaving more than 900 donations uncollected.

"Disruptions to blood and platelet donations jeopardize the availability of blood for patients who depend on transfusions for survival," said Tiffany Taylor, external communications manager of Red Cross River Valley Blood Services. "We're grateful for all those who have come out to give since we issued our emergency call earlier this month and now urge others to come out and give to prevent delays in essential medical care."

All eligible donors, especially platelet donors and blood donors with type O blood, are urgently needed to help restock the shelves for hospital patients.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Wizards beat reeling Pacers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bradley Beal scored 25 points, Jeff Green added 23 to lead another productive night from Washington's bench, and the Wizards beat the reeling Indiana Pacers 107-89 on Wednesday night.

Green had 16 points in the first half to help spell Beal, who came in second in the NBA in minutes at 37.2 per game, and the Wizards' reserves scored 58 points. Washington's second unit also led a fourth-quarter rally that just fell short against Cleveland a night earlier.

Chasson Randle matched his career high with 13 points for Washington.

Thaddeus Young scored 13 points for the Pacers. They are 0-3 since a victory over Toronto in which leading scorer Victor Oladipo suffered a season-ending knee injury. Indiana fell to fourth place in the Eastern Conference, a half-game behind Philadelphia and a half-game ahead of fifth-place Boston.

Indiana could easily fall further if coach Nate McMillan can't find a way to compensate for the absence of Oladipo, who averaged 18.8 points per game. The Pacers lacked a go-to scorer, with Bojan Bogdanovic, Doug McDermott and TJ Leaf chipping in 12 apiece.

The Wizards never trailed after a 10-0 run in the first quarter that put them ahead 24-18. Washington pushed its lead to 22 points in the third quarter. Indiana briefly cut it to 10 but never got closer.

The Pacers visit Orlando tonight (TV: Live on FS Indiana at 7 p.m.)

Ex-Carmel coach sentenced

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A former suburban Indianapolis swim coach has been sentenced to 16 years and eight months in federal prison for sexually exploiting one of the girls he coached.

U.S. Attorney Josh Minkler announced the sentencing Wednesday of 30-year-old John Goetz, who coached at the Carmel Swim Club and as a volunteer assistant coach for Carmel High School swim team.

Minkler says Goetz had a relationship with the girl that lasted more than nine months through last June. Prosecutors have said they believe Goetz had sex with the girl at parks, at his home and at an Anderson hotel where he shot video of them having sex. Her age hasn't been disclosed.

Goetz also must also serve 10 years of supervised release following his sentence.

Marquette beats Butler 76-58

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Markus Howard scored 32 points and Sam Hauser added 19 to help No. 10 Marquette pull away from Butler for a 76-58 victory Wednesday night.

The Golden Eagles (19-3, 8-1 Big East) have won eight straight overall and picked up their first win at Hinkle Fieldhouse since the 1989-90 season.

Kamar Baldwin led Butler (12-10, 3-6) with 16 points. Paul Jorgensen and Sean McDermott each scored 10 for the Bulldogs, who have lost three in a row and five of seven.

Howard didn't just score, he dominated the game.

The junior guard went 9 of 17 from the field in the first half — matching Butler's team field goal total — and helped the Golden Eagles build a 34-25 halftime lead. He finished 14 for 23 and had five rebounds.

And when the Bulldogs cut the deficit to eight with an 11-0 run midway through the second half, Howard reasserted himself. He made two free throws and scored six points in the decisive 11-0 spurt that gave Marquette a 61-45 lead with 6:34 to go.

The Bulldogs never seriously challenged again on a brutally cold night that forced the cancellation of classes.

Athletic department officials put heaters at each gate and instructed security guards to expedite the screening process to keep fans as warm as possible amid wind chills that were at minus-17 degrees when the doors opened and the sun was still out.

Salukis top Sycamores

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Armon Fletcher scored a career-high 34 points with six 3-pointers and Southern Illinois beat Indiana State 88-73 on Wednesday night.

Southern Illinois led 38-32 at halftime and seized command in the second half.

The Salukis (11-11, 4-5 Missouri Valley Conference) made 34 of 56 (60.7 percent) — including 11 of 20 from distance — but just 9 of 16 (56.3) from the foul line.

Tyreke Key led Indiana State (11-10, 3-6) with 25 points and Jordan Barnes added 20.

By MARK CAMPBELL

mcampbell@madisoncourier.com

Rose-Hulman held reigning Heartland Conference MVP — and current player of the week — Cam Fails to 1-of-10 shooting in the first half and built a 13-point lead over league-leading Hanover midway through the second half at Collier Arena.

Fails, the engine that propels the Panthers in so many ways, had rimmed out more shots to start Wednesday's chilly men's basketball matchup than he'd probably normally miss all week. The Panthers' offense was out of sync and the Engineers' big men were killing Hanover inside.

But before Rose could close out a big conference road win, Fails showed just why he's the MVP — and will likely be again this year — by leading Hanover to a 72-68 comeback win. The senior guard from Cincinnati put his team on his back to score 22 second half points — on 6-of-9 shooting — while dishing out a game-high 11 assists overall for his first career double-double.

"Rose is a really good team and they are well coached. For the better part of 30 minutes they really had us bottled up on offense," Hanover coach Jon Miller said. "We did what you do sometimes and put the ball in our best guy's hands and tried to let him keep us from going down. Cam Fails, if he's not a first team All-American that last 10 minutes of the game, then I don't know what it takes to be one."

Fails ended the night with a team-high 24 points, 11 rebounds, four steals and four steals with just two turnovers in 38 physically exhausting minutes. He was 7-of-19 overall, 2-of-9 beyond the arc and 8-of-10 at the foul line.

"He gets guarded hard every night and he's a high-level, hard-shot maker and some of those hard shots he's been making, he struggled with a little bit tonight," Miller said of Fails. "But those are hard shots."

"Rough first half. Very rough first half," Fails said. "But the reason I came out confident in the second half is because I knew I was still getting good looks. I was getting good looks but they were going in and out and I knew that. I knew in that second half our offense was getting stagnant and I needed to remain confident and aggressive and that's what I did and the shots finally started falling ... It helps when I come to the locker room at halftime and my teammates and my coaches tell me to keep shooting."

Trailing 50-37 with 10:31 left in the game, Fails went to battle both as a scorer and play-maker. He dished to Christian Reed for a layup, made a free throw, hit a jumper, passed to Carlos Garcia for a layup, knocked down a 3-pointer, hit a jumper, passed to Matt Weimer for a jumper, made two free throws and finally scored on a layup to tie the game 60-60. His three-point play with 2:04 left gave Hanover its first lead (63-60) since 27-26 late in the first half.

Fails didn't quit there and either did his teammates. On Hanover's next possession Fails passed to Weimer who had spotted up on the right side and the freshman from Floyd Central knocked down a 3-pointer that gave Hanover a two-possession cushion and allowed the Panthers to hold off Rose the rest of the way.

R-H pulls away from cold shooting Panthers

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier.com

Hanover women's basketball led 28-26 at halftime but a disastrous third quarter and cold shooting throughout buried the Panthers as Rose-Hulman surged for a 65-49 Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference win on Wednesday night in Terre Haute.

The win puts the Fightin' Engineers two games ahead of Hanover for second place in the HCAC and just one game back of league-leading Transylvania. The Panthers remain in third place but now just a game ahead of fourth place Mount St. Joseph.

Hanover's dismal shooting was constant throughout, but Alexis Nall proved to be the team's lone bright spot on offense and her play allowed the Panthers to stay the course and eventually take a lead in the second quarter.

Rose-Hulman (14-6, 11-2 HCAC) raced out to a 6-1 lead in the first quarter before Nall scored a pair of buckets to get Hanover's offense going. Rose answered shortly after and pushed the advantage back to two possessions when Abby Bromenschenkel hit a layup and a free throw and the Engineers led 16-12 at the first stop.

Abby Bromenschenkel started a hot streak by scoring five points out of the gate to give Rose a 21-12 lead in the second quarter but Brooke Todd responded with a 3-pointer and the rest of the period belonged to Nall.

The junior finished the first half with 11 points on 4-of-4 shooting. It was Nall's layup with 46 seconds left that tied the game and she also scored with seconds left to give the Panthers a two-point lead at halftime.

Nall finished the night 10-of-12 from the field but her two lone misses were just a small portion of the disaster that left Hanover in the third quarter when McKenzie Messmore's three-point play turned out to be the only points scored by Hanover.

Rose took advantage by scoring 18 points to build a double-digit lead and keep it the rest of the way. Abby Bromenschenkel and Taylor Graham scored five points each in the rally as the Engineers seized a 13-point lead.

Nall scored 10 points in the fourth quarter but Rose had already grabbed all the momentum and led by as many as 18 points. Abby Bromenschenkel scored six more the rest of the way and the Hanover never threatened over the final 10 minutes.

Outside of a 17-of-18 mark from the free throw line by Hanover, the shooting numbers tell the story. Nall shot 10-of-12 from the floor to lead all scorers with 27 points but the rest of the Panthers made just 5-of-37 from the field including 2-of-14 outside the arc.

Rose shot 44 percent from the floor and put four players in double figures paced by Ally Bromenschenkel's double-double of 18 points and 18 rebounds. She was 7-of-13 from the line.

Graham added 13 points off the bench while Abby Bromenschenkel scored 11 and Hannah Woody added 10.

Hanover (13-7, 9-4 HCAC) travels to Anderson on Saturday.

Rutgers' 22-0 rally sends IU to 7th-straight hoops setback

By MATT SUGAM
Associated Press

PISCATAWAY, N.J. — Rutgers and Indiana are streaking.

The upstart Scarlet Knights are on a three-game win streak in Big Ten play for the first time in school history, slowly climbing out of the conference basement under third-year coach Steve Pikiell. Meanwhile the Hoosiers once-promising season has hit a seven-game skid under second-year coach Archie Miller.

Eugene Omoruyi had a double-double with 14 points and 10 rebounds and Geo Baker had 16 points and five assists as Rutgers used a 22-0 run to come back and beat Indiana 66-58 Wednesday night.

"We weren't really even thinking about how many points we were scoring," Baker said of the run. "I knew that they weren't scoring and that was the main thing. Keep locking them up, keep playing good defense."

Ron Harper Jr. had a fast break dunk followed by a 3-pointer after back-to-back Indiana turnovers as Rutgers (11-9, 4-6 Big Ten) ended the first half on a 9-0 run, cutting Indiana's lead to 29-28.

"That three I hit in the corner — I feel like that was huge," Harper Jr. said. "(Eu)Gene (Omoruyi) has been throwing me that pass in the corner for the last couple of days at practice. He said Indiana's going to dig in so just be prepared for me to throw a rocket your way and shoot it and it happened."

The Scarlet Knights started the second half on an 11-0 run to take their first lead of the game since 3-2.

Indiana (12-9, 3-7 Big Ten) scored with 3:48 left in the first half on Aljami Durham layup. The Hoosiers wouldn't score again until Romeo Langford, who had a game-high 20 points, hit a 3-pointer with 14:29 to go to stop the bleeding and end Rutgers' 22-0 run — its largest in Big Ten play — and make it 41-32.

Langford got Indiana within seven, scoring with 6:09 to go and again with 2:43 to play on a pair of free throws. A Juwan Morgan layup made it 58-53 with 2:00 left, but that's the closest Indiana would get.

"It's not magic, stick with it. Have to hang in there with it," Miller said. "At some point in time, if you keep showing up every day and you keep doing it the right way and keep finding a way, eventually something good will happen, and once that happens, that can cause the next chain of events, but it's a difficult league to play in, especially when you're not playing your best. We'll see. I think everyone in the whole world wants to see if we'll respond at some point in time and I think we will."

BIG PICTURE

Indiana: After a few weeks in the Top 25 earlier in the season, peaking at No. 21, the Hoosiers have lost seven in a row. It's the worst losing streak for IU since 2010-11, when they lost their final nine Big Ten games, including the first round of the conference tournament. Indiana's last win was versus Illinois Jan. 3.

Rutgers: This was a big step for the Scarlet Knights as they continue to climb out of the basement of the Big Ten, winning three in a row for the first time in school history. The last time Rutgers won three-straight conference games was 2003-04 in the Big East.

IT'S-A FIRST

Indiana still leads the all-time series 6-2, but Rutgers picked up its first home win in the series. Previously 0-3 at home, Rutgers' only other win versus Indiana came last year in the second round of Big Ten Tournament, overcoming a 16-point deficit to win 76-69 at Madison Square Garden.

ROAD TRIPPING

Indiana is in the midst of a tough stretch where they're playing six of eight games on the road. The Hoosiers will get six of nine games at home starting Feb. 7.

UP NEXT

Indiana visits No. 6 Michigan State Saturday night (TV: Live on ESPN at 6 p.m.).

15th-ranked Louisville routs Wake Forest 82-54 on road

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — No. 15 Louisville had just polished off another romp on the road, and on the way back to the locker room, a staff member couldn't contain his joy.

So he let out a yell: "Roadkill, baby!"

Two trips to the state of North Carolina, two blowout wins.

The Cardinals won their sixth straight game, routing Wake Forest 82-54 on Wednesday night behind 20 points from Jordan Nwora.

"You feel very fortunate when you go on the road and win in the ACC," first-year coach Chris Mack said. "No matter who you play."

Dwayne Sutton added 17 points and 10 rebounds, Malik Williams finished with 13 points and Ryan McMahon had 12 points on four 3-pointers for the Cardinals (16-5, 7-1).

They shot 52 percent and led by 35 while keeping themselves even with three other one-loss teams — No. 2 Duke, No. 3 Virginia and No. 9 North Carolina — atop the Atlantic Coast Conference. In their only other visit to this state, they gave the Tar Heels their worst home loss under Roy Williams, an 83-62 beatdown on Jan. 12.

Nwora, who averages 18 points, had 17 in the first half while Ryan McMahon hit three 3s in roughly 5 minutes. Behind those two — and 8-of-13 shooting from 3-point range in the half — Louisville needed less than 15 minutes to build a 20-point lead. The Cardinals spent the rest of the game maintaining it.

"For the first 30 minutes, our guys really came to play," Mack said. "When you play a team that hasn't had much success, you worry about your own team not coming out and being at its best."

Brandon Childress scored 13 points, Jaylen Hoard finished with 11 and Chaundee Brown had 10 for the Demon Deacons (8-12, 1-7).

They shot a season-worst 27 percent and missed 13 of their first 14 3-pointers. They have lost seven of eight and are off to their fourth 1-7 start to league play in five years under coach Danny Manning.

"They delivered the first blow, and staggered us, and we didn't recover, to be honest with you," Manning said.

The Cardinals are riding the hottest streak of their five years in the ACC. Their 7-1 start to league play is their best since joining this conference, and their best in any league since they opened 8-0 in the old Big East in 2008-09. But things are about to get tougher — their next four opponents are in the AP Top 25.

"To come away with a win was great," Mack said, "and now we move on to a big challenge on Saturday. As big as it gets."

WELCOME BACK

Mack was on late coach Skip Prosser's staff at Wake Forest from 2001-04 and the Demon Deacons went 67-29 with three NCAs. Former Wake Forest coach Dino Gaudio is in his first year as an assistant to Mack. Gaudio went 61-31 in three seasons with the Demon Deacons.

•Hanover

For everything Fails did to fuel the comeback, he was still dishing off to Weimer and his teammates after the game. He said they delivered the biggest daggers in the end — including Weimer's 3-pointer and later free throws as well as free throws by Isaac Hibbard, a sophomore from New Albany — to seal the win.

Miller agreed that Weimer's big 3-pointer, late free throws and defensive block were huge plays by a freshman coming off the bench and averaging 3.6 minutes per game, especially on a night when junior starting forward Ryan Cloncs sat out with an arm injury.

"You know Coach Sturgeon and people told me he was a gambler and that's a big game play," Jones said of Weimer, whom he recruited from Floyd Central and coach Todd Sturgeon. "He's a competitor and he's a throwback. That moment's not too big for him. And he made big free throws for us later."

Hanover led by as much as six and as little as two the rest of the way en route to the final four-point win.

Weimer ended the night with seven points off the Hanover bench and, along with Garcia, were a big reason the Panthers' bench outscored the Engineers 17-8.

Meanwhile, Rose-Hulman big man John Czarnecki, a 6-foot-7 junior forward, punished the Panthers for a game-high 26 points and 10 rebounds to help stake the Engineers to a 42-26 advantage in points in the paint while also taking away a lot of the slashing drives to the basket that are the inside half of Hanover's normally potent inside/outside offense.

With the win Hanover (16-4, 11-2 HCAC) takes a two-game lead over Rose (13-7, 9-4 HCAC) while Bluffton and Transylvania are both 8-4 in the league.

Miller said the win over Rose-Hulman counts no more than Saturday's next game at 6-6 Anderson but it allows the Panthers to avenge a 74-68 loss at Rose back on Jan. 2 and it allows Hanover to gain separation on Rose, the preseason favorites to win the HCAC.
